

DRAGON DOUGLAS IN COURT

Two former Westley classmates of the bride-to-be, alleged to have been arrested in Newark, N. J., and charged with kidnapping the bride of Kenneth B. Douglas, journalist, short story writer, social service worker and director of charity, who was arranged to marry today as a fugitive from justice.

Douglas, who the police say is a man of several aliases, is wanted in Newark, N. J., on charges of perjury and false pretense in connection with his marriage to that city's second daughter, Miss Mary Douglas, who is now supposed to be in the hands of the police. This police say he failed to disclose to the clergyman who performed the ceremony that he had a wife. Police officers are on their way to Boston from Newark to take him back to that city for trial.

The priest is a nervous wreck and is said to be without a witness. He has been given notice to appear in court, but he has failed to do so.

When they were married in Newark, N. J., it was said that the bride had been given notice to appear in court, but she has failed to do so.

When the bride learned Douglas had been married before, she was said to produce proof that he had been divorced, it is said. She says she told her that he had been divorced in Florida and that he would send her and get the proofs.

After this conversation Douglas disappeared. The first that the wife knew he had deserted her, it was said, was when she learned in the newspaper office in Newark where he had been employed that he had sent a telegram from New York to the editor saying he would not return, as he was a physical wreck and would have to go away to a sanatorium for a long rest. Mrs. Douglas then notified the police.

Douglas has been shown in different cities under several aliases, including Donald J. Douglas, and Douglas, Peter Graham, Peter McGinnis, Frank Harris, and Douglas.

"Cussage" Follows Railroad Ban on Bulging Baggage

Have you one of those new trunks with bulging sides—the cute device designed to make the horrid baggage man set that trunk right side up, because the bottom is the only flat side?

If you have such a trunk and few tears, prepare to shed them in tears, not the trunk—now.

Now and after July 1, the Boston & Albany railroad will refuse to accept bulging trunks in the regular baggage service.

You must either travel "in a suitcase" or send your trunks by express.

It is estimated the new regulation—which is sanctioned by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the ground that a bulging trunk takes up more than its share of room—will cost the people of Massachusetts a million dollars in expressage, consignment, and general wear and tear this summer.

MRS. CELTA IS LOCATED IN HARTFORD

The mystery of the disappearance of young Mrs. Angelina Celta from No. 12 Thatcher street, North End, was solved today when it was learned she had been in Hartford, Conn., where she is now supposed to be in the hands of the police.

Mrs. Celta's sister, Mrs. Marie Maffa, No. 12 Thatcher street, Charlestown, has received the following post card from her:

My Dearest Sister—I am letting you know that I am well and also tell mother that my health is better. My best regards to our friends.

Your loving sister, ANGELINA.

It is said that Mrs. Celta left her husband's home after a difference was made regarding real property. The Celtas lived at No. 13 Belmont street, Charlestown, opposite the home of Mrs. Celta's sister. They owned the place No. 13. It is said that Mrs. Celta, the husband, wished to sell, but the wife did not. Finally, Mrs. Celta went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Marie Maffa, No. 12 Thatcher street, which accounts for that address being given as her home.

Early in May Mrs. Celta left there according to relatives, went to Hartford. She returned to Boston at once. It is said that she was timorous about returning and that she arranged for a man whom she was working to follow her to Boston as a sort of protector. The presence of this man is thought to have given rise to a report that she had been lured away by promise of work.

SALEM DANCE MAYOR CENSOR QUIT THE JOB

Mrs. Mary L. H. Brooks, headworker at the House of Seven Gables Settlement in Salem, has resigned as one of the two women dance hall censors in the Witch City.

Her letter of resignation to Mayor John F. Hurley, Mrs. Brooks reminds him that his City Council failed to pass the dance hall regulations.

She adds, however, that she resigns on account of increasing settlement work in the summer season. Her letter to the Mayor is as follows:

Dear Sir:—In an open letter printed in the Salem Evening News, dated November 21, 1912, you appealed to the members of the different clubs and societies to assist you in your effort to do away with objectionable dancing in the city of Salem. As a consequence, Miss Brooks and I were appointed honorary dance hall censors.

I have visited the dance halls since that time as often as my duties as headworker of the House of Seven Gables Settlement would permit, and besides I assisted in writing some dance hall regulations, which were modeled after the Cleveland and Boston dance hall laws.

When these proposed regulations came up for a hearing I appeared at the Council Chamber and urged that they be enacted into law. As you know, we failed to have them passed.

I am calling these facts to your attention for the reason that it is with regret that I must now tender my resignation as an honorary dance hall censor of the city of Salem.

I do not resign for lack of interest in this serious problem, but because the House of Seven Gables Settlement will soon open its Summer camp for children and its city playground, which, added to the other activities of our house to show hospitality to the city by numbers of travelers, precludes our serving in any other public capacity.

In your letter (above referred to) you expressed a sincere desire to stop the abuse of dancing, and therefore I would suggest every public spirited man and woman in Salem to co-operate with your House of Seven Gables Settlement in this noble work.

With the hope that you will interest all the citizens of Salem in assisting you in your work of stopping objectionable dancing, I am, Yours very truly,
(MRS.) MARY L. H. BROOKS.

Crying Babies to Have Special Room in Divorce Court

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—Crying babies are to have a room all by themselves where they can be rocked to sleep.

Only persons directly connected with divorce cases will be welcome in court.

These two innovations were inaugurated in divorce court by Judge Grant Jackson sitting for Judge Rose. Judge Jackson provided a room for the babies who wanted to go to sleep not because their crying disturbed him but because they would be more comfortable. To judge the court stated from the bench that he had preferred the little ones to the recital of domestic trouble.

U. S. ARMY MEXICO LANDED BY GARRISON

WEST POINT, June 12.—One hundred and seven cadets were graduated at the United States Military Academy today. The address was delivered by Colonel M. Garrison, Secretary of War, who paid high tribute to the conduct of the army in the recent crisis. The referred participants to the avoidance of trouble on the Mexican border, where 1,200 miles is being protected.

"Across the border," he said, "antagonists in arms are constantly clashing in sight of our men. Friends and supporters of the respective sides are constantly appealing to our territory as a means of refitting and outfitting hostile expeditions."

"These positions are aroused on both sides of the line, and there is need for constant, ceaseless watchfulness and calmness. A slight mistake, a small indiscretion, would have momentous consequences. And yet no such thing has happened."

"The discipline of character, the self-restraint of training and the ability and intelligence of our men has every emergency and through every test met with an unblemished record."

"It is not that something to be proud of. Does not that speak in loud and clear tones to our people that they are the supporters of such a display?" An arm ready for action—this is a fighting force. It is not necessary to say that of all things a young soldier, calm, reserved, self-controlled, calm, doing the things in a fine way.

Robert R. McKel, M. D., Cincinnati, O., who has just left a half-century of service in the United States Army, was given the honor of dedicating the new building of the Y. M. C. A. at Allenton. The building is a fine structure, and the camp meeting is expected to be a success.

Devours 213 Onions; Wins $1,000 Wager

DAVENPORT, Ia., June 12.—Dawn Meyer, a young farmer, twenty, outdistanced five competitors in an onion race by consuming 213 onions in thirty-three minutes for a wager of one acre of land in Pleasant Valley, an onion-raising center north of here. The land is worth $100 per acre. Meyer grew the onions eaten in the contest. His nearest competitor ate but 175 onions.

Girl Knocks Out Thug and Aids in Arrests

NEW YORK, June 12.—William Patterson, secretary of the Social Service Commission of Philadelphia, was dragged into an East Side hallway by two footpads, who hit him over the head and rifled his pockets. The robbers were interrupted in their work by a policeman and a girl and after a battle during which the girl clubbed one of the robbers into submission.

Give Finger Prints to Clear Suspicion

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—To clear themselves of suspicion in connection with the robbery of gymnasium lockers, the students of a high school had their finger prints impressions taken to compare with those left on a broken window pane by the burglars. The lost taken amounted to $75.

SAY EASTERN RAILROADS WIN RATE DECISION

NEW YORK, June 12.—The World's Washington correspondent sends the following dispatch:
"The opinion of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the application of the Eastern railroads for an increase of 5 per cent. in freight rates has been sent to the Government Printing Office after receiving the approval of the members of that body."

"Although no official announcement has been made, it is expected the findings of the commission in this important case will be made public not later than June 25. It is understood the commission will make the opinion public after the stock market closes, in order to prevent the decision being used to 'bull' or 'bear' the market."

While the members of the commission are silent as to their conclusions, it is understood the railroads will not be disappointed by the findings. From a source close to the commission, it is learned that while there may not be a general advance of 5 per cent. in freight rates in Eastern classification territory, the rates will be so adjusted as to be a fair remuneration for the services rendered the shippers.

Society Women to Give a "Garage Ball"

MENLO PARK, June 12.—Society women are preparing to stage a "garage ball" for the benefit of the Trinity Episcopal Church on June 13. James L. Frost's garage, the largest on the Peninsula, will be turned into a ballroom. The ladies are making preparations and intend to institute the novel plan of having an orchestra at each end of the large structure. Thus a two-step and stop on the farther side to the strains of a waltz.

Honus Wagner, the "Pirate" great shortstop, is today demonstrating that his greatness is not confined to the baseball diamond alone. Carman Here for Motor-Pace Record

Charles Carman of Jamaica, L. Didier and Carman arrived today and held Collins in practice workouts at the beach oval. Collins is putting everything into his workouts, and although he has twice been beaten by Didier, he believes that the tide of glory will turn his way this time. Didier, who has yet to lose a race at Severe, will surely make the going out for Carman.

Niles Proves Easy Winner Over Seaver

Nat W. Niles, 1913-14 title holder, defeated R. C. Seaver in the challenge match for the State singles championship at Longwood in the straight sets, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2. Seaver's only consolation was the service of his opponent, and Niles' great forward drives were so deadly that Seaver sometimes winily did not go after them at all.

The Cool Beer For Hot Weather

Here's a tip from one who knows. It's a going to be right hot pretty soon—frying, thirsty hot. You'd better slip an order to your dealer for a few cases of that one best thirst-satisfier—

Then the well-known sun can shine himself to a frazzle, and you can laugh out loud in his face. Just tip the cap on another bottle of Springfield, let the amber and white palate-chaser gurgle into a glass, a few sips—it'll cool you off quicker than any electric fan you ever met up with. Honest, it's great. There's a flavor in this beer you can't beat, and it's hard to describe. But, believe a few hundred thousand Springfield Beer fans, it reaches the thirsty places. Just to remind you again—you'd better phone your dealer now. Springfield Breweries Co., Springfield, Mass. Boston Branch—11 Knapp St. Tel. Oxford 3050
